Division,
Circle Graphics

LONGMONT, CO, December 18, 2019—Circle Graphics, Inc., the world's largest producer of grand and large-format digital graphics, today announced that Rod Rackley has been named the new President of the company's OOH Division.

Rackley has more than 20 years of senior management experience, including almost a decade as Circle Graphic's Chief Revenue Officer from 2004-2012.

"Rod is the right leader for Circle's OOH Division," said Andrew Cousin, Circle Graphic's CEO. "Rod was instrumental in building Circle's OOH division in our early years, and his deep industry knowledge and relationships will all be invaluable as we seek to grow Circle during our 20th anniversary in 2020 and beyond."

"I am very excited to be reuniting with Circle," said Rod Rackley. "Andrew and his team have done a terrific job continuing to build on our early success at Circle. Our new private equity partners are excited to help fuel our growth by looking at strategic opportunities and providing expertise in a variety of areas. I believe Circle is in a position to create even more value for our customers."

Rackley received a BS Degree in Engineering from Stanford University and an EMBA from Tulane University.
